

EXHIBIT B

Downer Report

MARTYN DOWNER WORKS OF ART

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Pair diamond spherical ear pendants

Each designed as a sphere pave-set throughout with cushion-shaped diamonds and mounted towards the front with a larger rose cut diamond, supported on diamond cluster surmounts set with a rose-cut diamond within a border of smaller cushion-shaped diamonds. Mounted in silver and gold. Modern.

In my opinion these diamond ear pendants are of modern manufacture in an antique style using cushion-shaped diamonds recovered from antique jewels. I would date their manufacture to the early 21st century. The larger rose-cut stones with polished girdles appear of recent, probably Far Eastern production. The use of large rose-cut diamonds with cushion-shaped stones is not consistent with European jewellery designs of the 19th century. The design of the ear pendants is contemporary and not antique.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Martyn Downer', with a long, sweeping horizontal line extending to the right.

Martyn Downer F.G.A.

12 April 2019